CIVIL PROCEDURE / MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

Summary judgment should only be granted in a case that is clear and free from doubt. Toy v. Metro Life Ins. Co., 928 A.2d 186, 195 (Pa. 2007).

CIVIL PROCEDURE / MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

Summary judgment can be granted at the close of pleadings (1) When there is no genuine issue of any material facts as to a necessary element of the cause of action or defense which would be established by additional discovery or expert report, or (2) if, at the completion of discovery relevant to the motion, including the production of expert reports, an adverse party who will bear the burden of proof at trial has failed to produce evidence of facts essential to the cause of action or defense which in a jury trial would require the issues to be submitted to a jury. Pa. R.Civ.P. 1035.2

CIVIL PROCEDURE / BURDEN OF PROOF

In personal injury cases it is not necessary that expert medical testimony be admitted by a plaintiff to prove his/her case when the disability complained of is the natural and probable result of the injuries. The two must be so closely connected and so readily apparent that a laymen could diagnose, except by guessing, the causal connection.

CIVIL PROCEDURE / BURDEN OF PROOF

When a plaintiff has medical reports from their expert opining to a reasonable degree of medical certainty that the injuries were caused as a direct result of exposure to a LED checkout scanner, the plaintiff has breached the threshold of a genuine issue of material fact, and summary judgment will be denied.

CIVIL PROCEDURE / INTENTIONAL INFLICTION OF EMOTIONAL DISTRESS

In order to maintain a claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress extreme and outrageous conduct by the defendant is a necessary element. As plaintiffs could not show the defendant's action to be more than negligent or inappropriate, a request for summary judgment will be granted.

CIVIL PROCEDURE / SCOPE OF EMPLOYMENT

When an employee commits an act within the course of one's employment that injures another, the employer will not ordinarily be excused from liability, although the employee abused his authority and thereby inflicted injury upon another. Potter Title & Trust Company v.

Knox, 113 A.2d 549, 551 (Pa. 1955).

CIVIL PROCEDURE / SCOPE OF EMPLOYMENT

An employer is vicariously liable for the negligence of an employee only when the employee is acting within the scope of his/her employment. Cesare v. Cole, 210 A.2d 491, 493 (Pa. 1965).

CIVIL PROCEDURE / SCOPE OF EMPLOYMENT

Generally the scope of the employee's employment is a question of fact for the jury. Anzenberger v. Nickols, 198 A.2d 309, 311 (Pa. 1964). However, when no factual dispute exists the court may decide the issue.

CIVIL PROCEDURE / SCOPE OF EMPLOYMENT

Vicarious liability for an employee's intentional or criminal acts are considered within the scope of employment when the employee's conduct (1) is of a kind in nature that the employee is employed to perform; (2) occurs substantially within the authorized time and space limits; (3) is actuated at least in part, by a purpose to serve the employer; and (4) if force is intentionally used by the employee against another, the use of force is not unexpected by the employer.

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF ERIE COUNTY,
PENNSYLVANIA CIVIL DIVISION NO. 13954-2004

Appearances: Jeff A. Connelly, Esq., Attorney for Plaintiff
 Bruce L. Decker, Jr., Esq., Attorney for Defendant

OPINION AND ORDER

DiSantis, Ernest J., Jr., Judge

This comes before the Court on the Defendant's Motion for Summary Judgment.

I. BACKGROUND OF THE CASE

This is a personal injury action arising out of an incident that occurred on June 23, 2004 at the Country Fair Convenience Store located at the corner of 18th and Sassafraas Streets in the City of Erie. The minor plaintiff, Dominica Juliano and her grandmother, Susan Juliano were patrons of the store on that day. While standing at the checkout counter with her grandmother, the cashier, Robert Harps, shined the light from the light-emitting diode ("LED") scanner on the plaintiff's neck and face. While doing it he encouraged her to smile. The incident lasted less than a minute. Susan Juliano also saw the cashier shine the LED on another young girl. Plaintiff alleged four separate causes of action or claims in her complaint: (1) Count I - negligence; (2) Count II - battery; (3) Count III - intentional infliction of emotional distress; and (4) Count IV - punitive damages.

The minor plaintiff alleges that as a result of Harps' conduct, she sustained various personal injuries, including a burn, swelling and chronic irritation of her left cheek and eye as a result of being exposed to the LED light. She further alleges that she developed Tourette's Syndrome, Post Traumatic Stress Disorder ("PTSD") and a nervous tic as a result of the incident.

The defendant has moved for summary judgment arguing: (1) plaintiff has failed to produce competent medical evidence that her exposure to the scanner LED light caused her alleged physical injuries; (2) plaintiff has failed to produce evidence that the defendant Country Fair and/or its employee, Mr. Harps, engaged in outrageous conduct sufficient to support a claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress; (3) plaintiff has failed to produce evidence that the conduct of the defendant Country Fair would support an award of punitive damages and, in the alternative, (4) Harps' conduct in shining the light on the plaintiff was so abnormal and/or whimsical as to fall outside the scope of his employment with defendant Country Fair.

At the argument conducted March 13, 2009, plaintiff conceded that the evidence was insufficient to support a claim for punitive damages. The Court agrees that the evidence of record would not support the claim. It will now address the remaining issues.

II. LEGAL DISCUSSION

Summary judgment should only be granted in a case that is clear and free from doubt. Toy v. Metro Life Ins. Co., 928 A.2d 186, 195 (Pa. 2007). Additionally, summary judgment can be granted at the close of the pleadings:

- (1) whenever there is no genuine issue of any material fact as to a necessary element of the cause of action or defense which would be established by additional discovery or expert report, or
- (2) if, after the completion of discovery relevant to the motion, including the production of expert reports, an adverse party who will bear the burden of proof at trial has failed to produce evidence of facts essential to the cause of action or defense which in a jury trial would require the issues to be submitted to a jury.

Pa.R.Civ.P. 1035.3 provides, in part:

- (a) ...the adverse party may not rest upon the mere allegations or denials of the pleadings but must file a response within thirty (30) days after service of the motion identifying

- (1) one or more issues of fact arising from evidence in the record controverting the evidence cited in support of the motion or from a challenge to the credibility of one or more witnesses testifying in support of the motion, or
- (2) evidence in the record establishing the facts essential to the cause of action or defense which the motions cite as not having been produced.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has stated that:

Where the non-moving party has failed to produce sufficient evidence to establish the existence of an element essential to the case, in which he bears the burden of proof, the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

Ertel v. Patriot-News Company, 674 A.2d 1038, 1042 (Pa.1996).

The purpose of the summary judgment rule "is to eliminate cases prior to trial where a party cannot make out a claim or defense". Miller v. Sacred Heart Hospital, 753 A.2d 829, 833 (Pa. Super. 2000). The Court must examine the record in the light most favorable to the non-moving party and resolve all doubt against the moving party. Aetna Casualty and Surety Company v. Roe, 650 A.2d 94, 97 (Pa. Super. 2004).

A. Whether Plaintiff's Claim For Physical Harm Resulting From Exposure To The LED Should Be Dismissed Because Plaintiff Has Produced No Competent Evidence That The LED Light Either Caused Or Was Capable of Causing Physical Injury?

The defendant concedes that it is not necessary in all personal injury cases that expert medical testimony be admitted by the plaintiff to prove his/her case. In Smith v. German, 253 A.2d 107 (Pa. 1969), the Pennsylvania Supreme Court stated that:

The law of this Commonwealth is well settled as to when medical testimony will be required to establish a causal connection between the event demonstrated and the result sought to be proved...thus..."where there is no obvious causal relationship, unequivocal medical testimony is necessary to establish the causal connection... (citations omitted).

Id. at 108.

The Court went on to say:

But where "the disability complained of is the natural and probable result of the injuries, the fact-finding body may be permitted to so find, even in the entire absence of expert opinion."... (citations omitted). The two must be "so closely connected and so readily apparent that a layman could diagnose (except by guessing) the causal connection. (citations omitted).

Id. at 109.

The plaintiff has produced medical reports from the minor plaintiff's primary care physician, Raymond McAllister, M.D. He opined to a reasonable degree of medical certainty that Dominica Juliano's Tourette' Syndrome was caused as a direct result of the checkout scanner. See Exhibit D to Defendant's Motion For Summary Judgment (letter of April 25, 2008). Dr. McAllister also penned a more detailed opinion letter on December 9, 2008. In that letter, Dr. McAllister noted that: "Dominica was seen shortly after this event by an ophthalmologist and diagnosed acute blepharitis and inflammation of the eyelid". The ophthalmologist, Dr. Subramanyan Segu, evaluated the minor plaintiff on June 25, 2004 (directly after the incident) and documented swelling and irritation about the plaintiff's left eye. See Exhibit 8 to Plaintiff's Brief In Opposition To Motion For Summary Judgment.¹

Recognizing that the plaintiff can prove her case by both direct and circumstantial evidence, the Court finds that a genuine issue of material fact exists as to Count 1.

B. Whether Plaintiff's Claim For Intentional Infliction For Emotional Distress Should Be Dismissed Because The Plaintiff Has Failed To Present Sufficient Evidence That A Genuine Issue Of Material Fact Exists As To That Issue?

Pennsylvania Courts have implicitly recognized a cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress. See Kazatsky v. King David Memorial Park, 527 A.2d 988, 995 (Pa, 1987). However, extreme and outrageous conduct by the defendant is a necessary element of the claim. See Papieves v. Kelly, 263 A.2d 118, 121-122 (Pa. 1970). As the Kazatsky Court noted:

[1] The gravamen of the tort of intentional infliction of emotional distress is outrageous conduct on the part of the tortfeasor. Section 46(1) of the Restatement (Second) of Torts, on which the Kazatskys rely, provides as follows:

§ 46. Outrageous Conduct Causing Severe Emotional Distress

(1) One who by extreme and outrageous conduct intentionally or recklessly causes severe emotional distress to another is subject to liability for such emotional distress, and if bodily harm to the other results from it, for such bodily harm.

¹ The fact that the plaintiff has not produced expert opinion concerning any harmful effects of the LED scanner does not require a grant of summary judgment on this point.

The availability of recovery under section 46 is highly circumscribed. The tortious conduct contemplated by the drafters of section 46 is described in their commentary:

d. Extreme and outrageous conduct.

The cases thus far decided have found liability only where the defendant's conduct has been extreme and outrageous. It has not been enough that the defendant has acted with an intent which is tortious or even criminal, or that he has intended to inflict emotional distress, or even that his conduct has been characterized by "malice," or a degree of aggravation which would entitle the plaintiff to punitive damages for another tort. Liability has been found only where the conduct has been so outrageous in character, and so extreme in degree, as to go beyond all possible bounds of decency, and to be regarded as atrocious, and utterly intolerable in a civilized community. Generally, the case is one in which the recitation of the facts to an average member of the community would arouse his resentment against the actor, and lead him to exclaim, "Outrageous!"

The liability clearly does not extend to mere insults, indignities, threats, annoyances, petty oppressions, or other trivialities. The rough edges of our society are still in need of a good deal of filing down, and in the meantime plaintiffs must necessarily be expected and required to harden to a certain amount of rough language, and to occasional acts that are definitely inconsiderate and unkind. There is no occasion for the law to intervene in every case where some one's [sic] feelings are hurt. Restatement (Second) of Torts § 46 comment d. (1965).

Kazatsky, 527 A.2d at 991 - 992. (See also, Small v. Juniata College, 682 A.2d 350, 355 (Pa. Super. 1996) (quoting Jones v. Nissenbaum, Rudolph and Seidner, 368 A.2d 770, 773 (Pa. Super. 1970)). It is for the Court to determine, in the first instance, whether the defendant's conduct was so extreme and outrageous that recover may be justified. Reimer v. Tien, 514 A.2d 566, 569 (Pa. Super 1986); see also, Restatement (Second) of Tort § 46, Comment (h) (1965).

After its review, this Court concludes that the evidence of record does not support the plaintiff's position. While Mr. Harps' conduct may have been negligent or inappropriate, it was not outrageous. Therefore, the Court will grant the defendant's request for summary judgment as to Count III.

C. Whether The Plaintiff's Claims Against The Defendant Should Be Dismissed Because The Acts Of Mr. Harps Fell Outside The Scope Of His Employment?

When an employee commits an act within the course of one's employment that injures another, the employer will not ordinarily be excused from liability although the employee abused his authority and thereby inflicted injury upon another. Potter Title & Trust Company v. Knox, 113 A.2d 549, 551 (Pa. 1955). An employer is vicariously liable for the negligence of an employee only when the employee is acting within the scope of his/her employment. Cesare v. Cole, 210 A.2d 491, 493 (Pa. 1965). Generally, the scope of the employee's employment is a question of fact for the jury. Anzenberger v. Nickols, 198 A.2d 309, 311 (Pa. 1964). However, when no factual dispute exists, the Court may decide the issue. Ferrell v. Martin, 419 A.2d 152, 155 (Pa. Super. 1980).

Vicarious liability for an employee's intentional or criminal acts are considered within the scope of employment when the employee's conduct:

- (1) ... is of a kind in nature that the employee is employed to perform;
- (2)...occurs substantially within the authorized time and space limits;
- (3)... is actuated at least in part, by a purpose to serve the employer; and
- (4)... if force is intentionally used by the employee against another, the use of force is not unexpected by the employer.

R. A. v. First Church of Christ, 748 A.2d 692, 699 (Pa. Super. 2000) (citation omitted); see also, Hill v. Acme Markets, Inc., 504 A.2d 324 (Pa. Super 1986) (cashier became upset, left work and was involved in auto collision); Restatement (Second) Torts § 317.

As the Superior Court has stated:

...moreover, our courts have held that an assault committed by an employee upon another for personal reasons, or in an outrageous manner, is not actuated by an intent to perform the business of the employer and, as such, is not within the scope of employment. Id. See also, Potter Title & Trust Co. v. Knox, 381 Pa. 202, 207, 113 A.2d 549, 551 (finding acts committed by employee in an outrageous or whimsical are not within the scope of employment). (citation omitted).

See R.A. v. First Church of Christ, 748 A.2d at 700.

After this Court's review of the plaintiff's allegations, it concludes that there is no issue of material fact as to Country Fair's vicarious liability as to the intentional tort of battery. There is no evidence that Mr. Harps' conduct was actuated, at least in part, by a purpose to serve his employer. Furthermore, it was not of a kind in nature that he was employed to perform. However, the negligence claim that focuses upon Country Fair's purported duty to oversee and supervise Harps' activities may proceed to disposition because there is a genuine issue of material fact as to that issue.

III. CONCLUSION

Based upon the above, this Court will grant the defendant's motion for summary judgment as to Counts II, III and IV of the complaint. It will be denied as to Count I.

ORDER

AND NOW, this 22nd day of April 2009, for the reasons set forth in the accompanying opinion, it is hereby ORDERED that the defendant's motion for summary judgment as to Counts II, III and IV is GRANTED. It is DENIED as to Count I.
